SERVIANS ARE WILD FOR WAR

King Peter Face to Face With a Grave Crisis.

THREATENED BY HIS SUBJECTS

May Be Dethroned or Assassinated Unless He Declares War Against Austro-Hungary — Dual Monarchy Prepares for Trouble and All Bridges Over the Danube Near the Serbian Frontier Are Guarded.

Belgrade, Serbia, Oct. 9.—War between Serbia and Austro-Hungary is so near that King Peter of Serbia in all probability must either declare it soon or suffer dethronement and perhaps assassination at the hands of his infuriated subjects.

The entire Serbian country is in a half mad ferment over the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina by the Austrian government.

Coupled as this act was with the declaration by Bulgaria of her independence, the proclamation of annexation by which the island of Crete has

Constantinople as to the advisability of the proposed conference of the powers to discuss the occurrences of the present eventful week, and Great Britain's hint to the Ottoman government that such a meeting might possibly add to the complications and result in further detriment to Turkey may induce the porte to abandon its demand therefor.

The porte will protest strongly to the powers regarding the Cretan declaration for union with Greece, but it is expected to take the view that inasmuch as this island is under the protection of the powers it is their duty to see that the rights of Turkey are upheld.

It is stated on good authority that Kiamil Pasha, the grand vizier, yielding to the demand of the military party, submitted to the sultan the text of an irade ordering the mobilization of the first army corps at Constantinople, the second at Adrianople and the third at Saloniki and Monastir. The irade, it is said, will be published immediately. The grand vizier has assured the ambassadors that the mobilization is purely a defensive measure.

It is rumored that the Turkish fleet has been ordered to mobilize and proceed to Varna, a Bulgarian port on the Black sea.

ENTIRELY UNEXPECTED.

Crete's Proclamation Causes Excitement in Greece.

Athens, Oct. 9.—Crete's proclamation of union with Greece was entirely unexpected here and has caused great excitement. The situation is considered embarrassing. King George is at present in Copenhagen and M. Skouzes, the minister of foreign affairs, has assured the diplomatic representatives of the foreign powers that the Greek government had not the slightest idea before hand that such an event would happen.

There was a meeting of the cabinet and the ministry resolved to take no action that might irritate Turkey. It is hoped, however, that since Turkey was practically deprived of Crete years ago, she will not oppose the people's wishes.

TAKE OATH OF LOYALTY.

Cretan Officials Swear Allegiance to Greece.

Canea, Crete, Oct. 9.—The members of the new government took the oath of loyalty to Greece here, as did also the officers of the gendarmerie and the militia.

The consular body protested in principle against the declaration of union, but will confine itself to submitting the matter to the four protecting powers, Great Britain, Russia, France and Italy.

TAFT REGISTERS.

Considerable Rivalry for Honor of Voting Republican Candidate.

Cincinnati, Oct. 9.—William Howard Taft is a registered voter in Precinct H, Ward 2, of the city of Cincinnati.

The Republican presidential candidate registered at his last opportunity before the November election, thus accomplishing the object for which he came here.

There was no little rivalry in the city for the honor of voting Mr. Taft. Michael Mullen of the Eighth ward, in which Mr. Taft was a resident before the city was redistricted, was keen to have the judge on his books, but Mr. Taft went to the same location in which he has voted for the past twelve years.

The registry office is in a plumbing shop, and when the genial candidate entered it, he was put through the following catechism by the registry clerk.

"How old are you?"
"Fifty-one."
"How many years have you lived in the state of Ohio?"
"Fifty-one."
"How many years in the country?"
"Fifty-one."
"How many years in the precinct?"
"Twelve."
"Married?"
"Yes."

The candidate then signed, "William Howard Taft," to the registry book and the act was completed.

"I was very glad to meet Mr. Bryan under such pleasant circumstances," was the only comment Mr. Taft cared to make on the Chicago banquet.

This is truly a campaign of education, and the amazing thing is that two other campaigns have taught Bryan nothing more than to try to rub off the blackboard the demonstrations that time has proved erroneous.

CHICAGO WINS DECIDING GAME

Captures the National League Championship for 1908.

PLAYED AT POLO GROUNDS

One of the Most Remarkable Baseball Games in the History of the Sport Ends in Defeat of the New York Team by a Score of 4 to 2—Two Men Killed and Many Injured at the Game.

New York, Oct. 9.—Chicago, 4; New York, 2—this was the tale in a phrase told at the end of the most decisive baseball game played in this country in many years; played at the Polo grounds in this city to decide the National league championship for the season of 1908. In the presence of a record-breaking crowd, which swamped the grounds and left many thousands outside long before the game began, a game was played in deadly earnest, "straight baseball with no frills,"—to settle as tensely dramatic a situation as the most ardent lover of sport could imagine. Chicago won and New York lost.

The game was played in cheerful sunshine of an ideal baseball day before a vast concourse of people, who carried with them to the Polo grounds the pent up enthusiasm, hopes and fears accumulated day by day in the closing weeks of a season's fight for a National league pennant which had been absolutely unprecedented for constantly intensifying interest and uncertainty. At dusk the great multitude departed from the historic enclosure—hushed and disappointed. The pennant does not wave above the skyscrapers. Its winners, who arrived here on the Twentieth Century limited, are now on their way Westward.

Like Mourning Captions.

The large black headlines in the newspapers—"New York, 2; Chicago, 4,"—are like mourning captions over the story of some great personage's death. And yet probably Manager McGraw's words after the game in the unwonted quiet of the training quarters where the Giants were having their showers and rubdowns, epitomizes the feelings of the vast army of New York's followers, from those of the merest office boy, who had to sacrifice another grandmother to get off early and climb an "L" pillar for an occasional diamondward glimpse, to the occupant of a grandstand box.

"I do not feel badly about the game; we merely lost something we had won before."

Fair or not, this appears to be the view generally obtaining in Greater New York.

It was great baseball, witnessed by the greatest of great baseball crowds—which would have been more than doubled if the fences had been stretched out into a circle of sufficient size to include all those who had clamored vainly for admittance and who thronged everything that offered the least possibility of catching even an echo of the applause within. Spectators who know the game, however bitter they may feel over the tie decision which made this game compulsory, seem to concede that the work of the Chicago team was practically perfect.

The Giants, well though they played, were outplayed.

Chicago Superb in Form.

Chicago, fresh from rest and well-judged practice and coaching, was superb in form. Brilliant, errorless fielding, snappy base running and opportune hitting in the third inning, which made effective in scores, a double by Chance, won the game. New York could not hit at critical times. Mathewson, "the great Matty,"—favorite of the favorites, could not keep his invincible arm power and effect of a moment's lapse in that third inning could not be overcome. McGraw's substitution of Wittke in the box the last two innings may or may not have been wise. The home team needed a long hit; needed the tremendous rallying power which Mathewson has more than once inspired in them at the very finish and wrung victory from seeming defeat.

The two great innings of the game were the third and the seventh. In the former Chicago made all its runs. In the latter, opening with tremendous enthusiasm following the loud-shouted, "the Giants' lucky seventh"—hopes were renewed, but died after one run, which kept company with that made in the first inning on the mammoth bulletin board far out of sight.

A display of rowdism at the very end of the game by a few disgruntled spectators marred in a measure what had hitherto been fair treatment of the visiting players. No attempt was made during the game itself to interfere with the Chicago team, but after the game the crowd had swarmed on

MRS. ERB TRIED TO END HER LIFE

Attempted to Strangle Herself in Her Cell.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—Persistent reports that Mrs. J. Clayton Erb, under arrest with her sister, Mrs. Katherine Beisel, on the charge of being accessory to the murder of her husband, Captain Erb, had attempted suicide at Media jail were partly confirmed by officials of the prison, who were, however, most guarded in their replies. Mrs. Erb is said to have twisted a portion of her undershirt into a rope and to have attempted to strangle herself in her cell.

It is known that all night she was violently hysterical, alternately shrieking, "I didn't shoot Clayt. I never shot him," and calling for her sister to help her.

This sensational development followed a series opened by the Philadelphia police, who are carrying on the investigation and prosecution, although the killing of the political leader was effected in another county over which they technically have no jurisdiction.

Skeletonized, the police theory is that Erb's death had long been decided upon by the two sisters; that they had endeavored to get in Mrs. Erb's name all his property; that they had attempted his life by slow poison, and this failing, and fearing discovery, they desperately plotted to shoot him and lure him to his death.

Object, Matrimony.

"I want to put an ad. in your paper," said the weary looking man. "Make it, 'Wanted, a situation—any old job.'"

"Shall I say 'wages no object?'" suggested the clerk.

"No; make it 'object matrimony.' If I could get acquainted with a decent job I'd be willing to marry it for life."

BIG PARADE OF VESSELS.

Nearly Two Hundred in Line on the Delaware River.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—The illumination of the squadron of battleships and cruisers at anchor in the harbor; the play of naval searchlights and brilliant fireworks along the three miles of the city's waterfront brought to a spectacular close the fifth day of Philadelphia's celebration of her 225th birthday anniversary.

Practically the entire interest of the day centered about the water display on the Delaware, where there was a parade of nearly 200 vessels of every class of craft navigating the river.

Not the least spectacular of the demonstrations was the parade of the Improved Order of Red Men. More than 15,000 men, the majority of them in full Indian costume, marched down Broad street before at least 200,000 people.

Carter Succeeds Hannahan.

Columbus, O., Oct. 9.—W. C. Carter of Peoria, Ill., was elected grand master of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen to succeed John J. Hannahan. Mr. Carter has been secretary of the organization for a number of years. St. Paul, Minn., was chosen as the place for the next meeting.

HUGHES IN KANSAS.

New York Governor Speaks in Several Towns.

Wichita, Kan., Oct. 9.—"Vote for Mr. Bryan's new proposals and you will support the next of kin, the heir at law, the very twin of Mr. Bryan's old 16 to 1 policies."

This assertion was made by Governor Hughes of New York to the voters of Kansas in a speechmaking tour in the state which culminated here. Governor Hughes spoke at eight towns to assemblies of farmers, railroad operators and business men. At Herlington, Kan., after leaving St. Joseph, Mo., Governor Hughes, pointing his finger at a crowd of workmen, declared:

"Don't let anybody tell you that Mr. Taft is not the friend of labor."

COON HUNTING IN AUTOS.

F. Ambrose Clark Tries to Exterminate Animals That Eat His Corn.

Hunting coons with an automobile is the latest pastime to be indulged in by F. Ambrose Clark and some of his friends at Cooperstown, N. Y. The corn and other produce on Fernleigh farm, which is connected with the estate of Mrs. Henry C. Potter, Mr. Clark's mother, have been devastated by coons lately, much to the annoyance of the farmers and the wealthy owner. At a meeting of the Fish and Game club held at Cooperstown the other night Mr. Clark proposed that the company take two of his large motors and start out in search of the animals.

Since that time a determined war on the coon tribe has been waged by automobiles. A pack of dogs is taken along, and when the coons are driven by the dogs into the open fields the autos give chase with all horns honking and a clamor that strikes terror to the heart of the wild animal never put there by the wailing of the huntsman's horn.

TO SEA IN HOUSE BOAT

Wealthy Man's Trip From New York to Florida.

HONEYMOON'S CONTINUATION.

No Danger, Says Edward Becket. When Costliest Craft of Its Kind in United States Rides on the Atlantic. Luxurious Quarters on Boat Formerly Owned by Long Islander.

Yachtsmen who have sailed the world over in quest of recreation and health are deeply interested in the house boat trip from New York city to Florida of Edward Becket, treasurer of the Equitable Engineering company of New York. Mr. Becket's house boat is the most splendidly equipped and costliest craft of its kind in America, if not in the world.

Although the boat draws little more than three feet of water, Mr. Becket says there will be no danger when it leaves the inland route in Virginia and rides on the Atlantic around Cape Hatteras and thence along the coast to Florida in tow of an ocean going tug. Mr. Becket intends to spend the winter on the Miami river. The trip will be a continuation of the honeymoon from which Mr. and Mrs. Becket returned recently after an extended European tour.

Up to the time of the recent purchase of the Najme from the heirs of George C. Taylor, the eccentric millionaire of Islip, N. Y., considerable mystery surrounded the boat, says the New York World. It was built for Betsy Head, housekeeper for the aged millionaire and whose home on the Long Island estate vied with the owner's mansion in magnificence.

Yachtsmen who have seen the Najme have expressed themselves as amazed by its luxuriant fittings. Her graceful lines, trim masts and burnished brasses suggest at first glance that the craft is a yacht. Closer inspection, however, reveals her to be a house boat without power. She is ninety-eight feet on the water line and has a thirty foot beam. The Cigarette, owned by an English millionaire, and the Everglades, owned by Colonel Thompson of New York city, are the only house boats in the world which exceed the Najme in length, but neither has more than half her beam.

The Najme is far more spacious than many a summer villa. The interior, woodwork, even to the galley, is of mahogany. Below the main deck are four large staterooms with two baths, a commodious dining room, a salon and a reading room. The latter three apartments, combined with a wide hall, can be turned into a ballroom by removing portières which otherwise separate them.

Forward on the boat are the kitchen or galley, two staterooms, one for the chef and the other for the maids, and quarters for the crew, which consists of four men and a cabin boy. On the upper deck—the second story of this palatial house boat—is the "sun promenade," along which are boxes filled with flowering plants. They are in view of the owner's suit, which was designed by E. Cockburn Johnstone, a Scotch shipbuilding expert, and to whose ingenuity the yachtlike appearance of the Najme is due.

The owner's suit consists of a salon, a spacious bedroom and a tiled bath room equipped with hot and cold salt water or fresh water. A spacious fireplace, which is fed with logs, is installed in the salon.

Mr. Becket purchased the thirty-five foot mahogany launch, the Syra, with the Najme as a tender. The launch will tow the house boat down the Raritan canal, through the Delaware river and into Chesapeake bay, where a tug will take up the journey around Cape Hatteras to Miami, Fla. Among the modern appliances with which the Najme is fitted is a sulphuric ether-hydrogen searchlight, the first of its kind operated by a storage battery, of 110,000 candle power.

George C. Taylor built the Najme several years ago from plans drawn by himself. The Najme's lines were first staked off with ropes on the lawn of the millionaire's Long Island estate. He employed expert craftsmen engaged from abroad to carry out his ideas. They were instructed to defer from even driving a nail unless it was with the sanction of Mr. Taylor or Betsy Head. Shipbuilders estimate the cost of the Najme at more than $200,000.

When the boat was finished Mr. Taylor found he could not get it to the bay to launch. He had a canal dug from the lawn to the inlet, a distance of half a mile, and in this manner floated the boat. It was moored to a dock at the end of the canal after one trial trip and thereafter was never used. Betsy Head it was said in the neighborhood, hitherto of the costly whim in which she had been indulged by the eccentric millionaire. The house boat was kept ready for occupancy, nevertheless, but only a few personal friends of Mr. Taylor were permitted to go on board.

Mr. Becket has refitted the boat, the most luxurious manner compatible with good taste. He plans later to install an engine which will drive the boat at a speed of from six to seven miles an hour.

JACOBSON SPOKE TO CROWDED HOUSE

Meeting at Opera House Thursday Evening was Large and Enthusiastic

DISCUSSED STATE ISSUES ONLY

Address was a Revelation to Many of the Ability and Power of the Man

It looked for awhile Thursday evening as if the chances for an address from Hon. Jacob F. Jacobson were slim. Word was received by telephone from Crow Wing that the machine had broken down and asked for help. C. W. and A. L. Hogman went down in their big touring car and brought the party to this city, arriving here at 7:45. Long before they arrived the lobby of the Ransford was crowded and hundreds were lined up on the street awaiting the arrival of the party.

After exchanging greetings with a few of the gentlemen present and eating a hurried supper Mr. Jacobson went direct to the opera house where one of the largest crowds which ever attended a political meeting in Brainerd was gathered.

The meeting was presided over by Judge W. A. Fleming, who was a colleague of Mr. Jacobson in the legislature twenty years ago, when the republican candidate was serving his first term. After paying a brief tribute to Mr. Jacobson's services at that time he introduced him to the audience as the next governor of Minnesota.

Mr. Jacobson was received with hearty applause. He stated in the commencement of his address that he should touch on state issues only. There would be other speakers later in the campaign who are more familiar with national issues than he is. He said he wanted to tell the people in plain, simple language some of the things he had accomplished in his public life and some of those he would attempt to accomplish if elected governor.

He touched on the establishing of the twine factory at Stillwater, the "Free Market" bill, by which the monopoly in the establishment of elevators along railroads has been broken, the "Y" law, which compelled railroads to do business with each other and to make joint rates between places within the state, and the law preventing "mid-night tariffs" by means of which the big shippers were enabled to secure a special tariff for a short time between certain places, while they rushed through a bunch of shipments while their smaller competitors, not being prepared to take advantage of it, or not knowing of it until too late were discriminated against.

He spoke of the campaign against the pine land frauds and urged the enforcement of the criminal provisions of the statute against timber thieves. He also discussed at length the fight for the enactment of the gross earnings tax, and the history of recent railroad legislation. He declared that he had no desire to be unjust with the railroads, and that every bill passed had proven to be an advantage to the people and none had injured the railroads when put to the actual test. He believed that the cases now pending in the courts to determine the justice of the changes in commodity rates made by the last session of the legislature should be carried to a decision and if elected governor he should advocate an appropriation for that purpose. If after actual test they were found unjust to railroad company he would urge their repeal.

He also advocated state drainage, agricultural schools in every county, and the increase of the work of the immigration bureau. He said the people of Minnesota should praise Minnesota and laud the state not only till they believed themselves that it was the best state in the union, but made everyone else believe it.

Turning his attention to Gov. Johnson, he said that he should make no attack on him whatever. He could only say that he admired an out and out democrat where ever he met him. He would give you a hot fight, go down to defeat smilingly and come up for another fight just as smiling as for the first. He made no attacks of any kind on his opponent, saying that if he could not be elected without attacking the integrity of his opponent he did not want the office.

Referring to the oft repeated insinuations and charges that he had sold out to the interests he declared that he never made a bad bargain unless he had to. He went to the convention with 172 votes more than enough to elect without a vote from the twin cities or Duluth, and that then the other fellows fell on his neck and declared that he was a good fellow and that they had been for him all the time. Gov. Johnson, he declared, went around the state two years ago telling the people how he, Jacobson, had been abused by the republican party, and how he was the ablest and honestest man in it. Now he was the tool of the interests and there was no good in him.

Mr. Jacobson made a decided hit with the audience and his clear cut plain talk met with approval and hearty applause. There is no doubt that he straightened his candidacy materially by his address and that there was not a man left the opera house last night who did not believe that "Jake Jacobson" was honest clear through and would do what he thought right whatever happened.

VISITED THE SHOPS

Hon. J. F. Jacobson Taken on Tour Through the Northern Pacific Shops by Supt. Anderson

Through the courtesy of J. P. Anderson, superintendent of the Northern Pacific shops, Hon. J. F. Jacobson, together with Ralph Wheelock, who accompanies him in the interests of the twin city papers, and a few local gentlemen, made a tour of the Northern Pacific shops this forenoon. Mr. Anderson personally escorted him through the various buildings, the foremen of the various departments accompanying them. After the visit both Mr. Jacobson and Mr. Wheelock expressed themselves as pleased and astonished at the magnitude of the institution, and said that they had enjoyed the trip immensely.

JOSIAH THAYER KILLED AT PASCO

Former Brainerd Resident Meets Death at Washington Town Wednesday Night

HE WAS A CAR INSPECTOR

Remains will Reach Here Sunday Morning and will be Buried with Masonic Honors

A telegram was received last night by A. E. Thayer that his brother Josiah Thayer had been killed at Pasco, Wash., and that the remains would arrive here Sunday morning. This morning a telegram arrived to the master for Aurora Lodge, A. F. & A. M., from the master of the lodge at Pasco, asking the lodge here to give him a Masonic funeral in accordance with the wishes of the family.

He was for many years a car repairer at the Northern Pacific shops here and with his family removed to Pasco last winter to accept a position as car inspector for the Northern Pacific railroad at that point.

Mr. Thayer was a brother also of Mrs. A. G. Brockway, of this city. His mother, Mrs. S. P. Thayer and another brother, Geo. W. Thayer, reside at Bethel, Minn., and a telephone message was received from them this morning, stating that they would arrive here tomorrow morning.

The deceased leaves a wife and four children, the oldest being 13 years of age. The family will accompany the remains and it is thought by the relatives that they will remain here as they have a home on Nineteenth street Southeast and there is nothing now to hold them at Pasco.

In accordance with the telegram received this morning arrangements are being made for a Masonic funeral at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, under the auspices of Aurora Lodge.

Passed Examination Successfully
James Donahue, New Britain, Conn., writes: "I tried several kidney remedies and was treated by our best physicians for diabetes, but did not improve until I took Foley's Kidney Remedy. After the second bottle I showed improvement and five bottles cured me completely. I have since passed a rigid examination for life insurance." Foley's Kidney remedy cures backache and all forms of kidney and bladder troubles. H. P. Dunn. mwf

NEW YORK WAITERS.

They Spoiled the Appetite of the Transplanted Citizen.

"These New York waiters have got on my nerves," said a transplanted citizen from a smaller town. "Dining in the magnificent hotels and restaurants would be a joy if some one would kindly remove the waiters while you ate. I can think of nothing but the big black buzzards that hover over your head in Florida."

"There are so many waiters standing around, all in black, and they look so big and get their faces or their hands so close to you and your dinner that you feel like throwing the china at them. When your waiter has disappeared a smaller edition keeps right after you, filling your glass, removing dishes, giving you more butter, and if you look away from him the head waiter has his eye on you."

"The most maddening thing of all to me is the way the waiter orders your dinner for you. One took me in hand the other night, and I let him have his way just to see what he would do to me. I hate fish, but he averred that fish was the best thing I could eat and one particular dish was the chef's masterpiece. He brought it and, ye gods, it was fish all greasy with a dope made of cheese and mushrooms that about finished me; but, fortunately, he only let me take two bites when he whisked my plate away and set down a salad that had several kinds of fruit laced to lettuce leaves, with strips of red and green peppers and French dressing over that. I barely looked at that when he took it away in triumph and gave me an ice cream thick with chestnuts and fruits."

"Now, I dine on rare roast beef, plain lettuce and never take dessert, so you see how near he came to sulking me. 'Come again, sir,' said he. 'Not if I'm conscious,' said I."—New York Times.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Coming Attractions

Oct. 9—"The Substitute"

Max Figman Tonight

Max Figman has arrived. He is one of the most foremost, if not the foremost comedians on the American stage, and he is growing more popular every day. There is something about his acting that is very fascinating. He is just naturally funny. He's versatile too. Comedy is his forte, but not withstanding that, there are few actors living who can equal him in character portrayal. The secret of it all is, he is a student. He takes life and his profession seriously, and is constantly trying to improve himself and his art. His success is amazing. He holds records for business in a dozen of theatres for the last two seasons.

"The Substitute" is a jolly story, and the critics claim it has made a fine play. It has a romantic touch, and the laughter never ceases from the first rise of the curtain to its fall on the finale. At the opera house tonight.

Bijou

At this popular place of amusement, large crowds witnessed one of the best programs put on for many months, the headliner being Franz Molnar's sensation play, "The Devil" as taken by Thos. A. Edison. This play is meeting with as much success in America as abroad, both in Balasco and the garden theatres in New York, respectively, being thronged nightly by crowds eager to see this curious drama. "The Devil" was first produced in Budapest in April 1907, and was seen in Vienna the following autumn. Since then it has been played in Berlin, Rome, Florence and a dozen other of the more important cities of the continent. The plot of the "devil" is a sociological study, the title role being a personification in human form of Satan. It will be some time before another picture of this character will be produced in this city. The vaudeville team "Smith and Adams" made a decided hit with the audience, in a ludicrous comedy act that is unique, introducing strong singing and buck dancing. This program will be repeated tonight and Saturday.

Millions of bottles of Foley's Honey and Tar have been sold without any person ever having experienced any other than beneficial results from its use for coughs, colds and lung troubles. This is because the genuine Foley's Honey and Tar in the yellow package contains no opiates or other harmful drugs. Guard your health by refusing any but the genuine. H. P. Dunn. mwf

Smith, alias Golden Asks Continuance for one Week of Case for Board Jumping

The case against T. E. Smith, alias Edward Golden, for board jumping, was called in municipal court this morning. Smith, which he declares is his true name, stating in court that Golden is his traveling name, asked for a week's continuance, saying that he wanted to hear from Davenport, where his people reside. He also declared that a local printer had gone good for his board bill. He was placed under $25 bonds until Monday, despite his plea to the judge to let him out on parole, promising to report to the sheriff every hour and a half. He was returned to jail in default of bail. He is apparently in bad shape physically as the result of strong drink and could hardly stand when in court today. There has no action taken as yet in the matter of the worthless check.

VAGARIES OF SOUND.

Acoustic Phenomena That Are Puzzling to Scientists.

At twilight some time ago at a life saving station of the English coast noises were heard that sounded like signal shots from some distance at sea. A boat was launched and sped with all possible energy to the place from which the sounds seemed to have come, but it returned without having heard or seen anything further. Yet the seaman who had been left behind on guard declared solemnly that in the meantime he had heard near shore unmistakable cries for help from drowning persons. The bluejackets themselves are most inclined to regard the whole matter as supernatural and the voices as spectral. Scientists say that it is possible, however, that such sounds may be audible in remarkable distinctness where there is a high coast, though they may come from a great distance, especially when persons there are placed accidentally so that behind them rises a wall which receives the sound and throws it back.

On some coasts that are often visited by fogs a legend of so called "fog shots" has acquired vogue. These are said to have their origin, for some reason not yet fathomed, within the masses of fog. Acoustic phenomena are found of such a strange kind that the investigation of them may be said to be still very far from conclusive. The most inexplicable secret lies perhaps not in the occurrence of sounds, the origin of which may be reached only with great difficulty, but in their disappearance and in absolute silence when audible noises should be expected. Many a ship has been wrecked because its signals of distress, loud and uninterrupted, have remained inaudible, although only a very short distance from the coast.

But, again, it happens that in such an instance the very same signals be come audible at a far greater distance where they provoke great excitement. A remarkable example of this was produced by the firing of guns by the English fleet in the roadstead at Spithead on Feb. 1, 1901, as a token of mourning for Queen Victoria. This was not heard at all by many persons close at hand who were listening for it, while at places much farther away it was heard plainly. The direction of the wind failed to explain this aberration of the waves of sound.—Chicago News.

Pelican and Flamingo.

The hook of the pelican's bill is red, and undoubtedly the fable that the pelican feeds its young with blood from its own breast originated in the bird's habit of pressing the bill upon the breast in order to more easily empty the pouch, when the red tip might be mistaken for blood. Another explanation is that the pelican became confused with the flamingo, which discharges into the mouth of its young a secretion which in color resembles blood.

RESUMES HIS CAMPAIGNING

Mr. Bryan Again Sallies Forth to Renew the Fight.

SCORES TAFT AND ROOSEVELT

Democratic Candidate Attacks His Republican Rival's Position on the Tariff, Trust and Labor Questions and Says No Remedial Legislation Need Be Expected as Long as Speaker Cannon Rules the House.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Having temporarily bridged the political chasm which separated them and shaken hands with his Republican opponent, William J. Bryan, Democratic candidate for president, again sallied forth and resumed his warfare. Not only Mr. Taft, but President Roosevelt came in for a severe verbal castigation at his hands. The forenoon was spent by the Democratic candidate in holding conferences with his lieutenants at headquarters and in the delivery of an address before the Lakes-to-the-Gulf Deep Waterways congress. In the afternoon he rode out to Evanston, a distance of fifteen miles, in an automobile, and there addressed several thousand students of Northwestern university, and citizens of the city, and at night journeyed to Chicago Heights, where he spoke to a big gathering of laboring men. He will leave here over the Santa Fe for Joliet, Streator, Galesburg and Quincy, Ill. Following his speech at the latter place, he will be taken in a special train to Hannibal, Mo., where he will make his final address of the day. Leaving Hannibal the next morning, Mr. Bryan will make speeches in Paris, Moberly, Kansas City and St. Joseph, Mo.

Mr. Bryan's principal remarks were made at Northwestern university. He first dwelt at some length on the desirability of good citizenship. "I want you to believe me," he declared, "that I am more anxious to help you than I am that you shall help me." He said it meant very little to the world whether any particular man was elected to the presidency, but that it did make a great deal of difference whether the government was properly conducted and whether the ideals of the people as citizens were worthy ideals.

Gives Advice to Students.

Addressing himself especially to the students, he said he wished to get them started right. He referred to the fact that his father did not leave him much money. "I am rather glad that he didn't," he said, "for I think fortunes have spoiled more boys than they ever have aided and a fortune in expectation has paralyzed ambition more than it ever has stimulated it." He then referred to the advice his father had given him, that he could afford to be in the minority but that he could not afford to be wrong on any question.

Mr. Bryan charged that the Republican leaders were not going in the direction that the people of the Republican party wanted to go, and he proceeded to present arguments in substantiation of his statement. He attacked Mr. Taft's position on the tariff, trust and labor questions, and warned his hearers that they need not expect any remedial legislation should the Republican party be kept in power and Speaker Cannon allowed to continue his despotic rule.

Once again he flayed President Roosevelt for interfering, as he said, in the campaign. The vigoriveness with which he spoke aroused the crowd to cheers. The president, he charged, had violated both the spirit and the letter of every civil service law by intimidating the several hundred thousand officeholders.

HOLDS ITS FIRST CONVENTION

Liberal Party Nominates a Candidate for President.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 9.—The Liberal party held its first national convention in this city for the purpose of putting candidates in the field for the presidency and vice presidency of the United States, and the following nominations were made:

For president, Sydney C. Tapp of Atlanta, Ga.

For vice president, John Maddox of Minnesota.

Mr. Maddox was chosen as chairman of the national executive committee.

The convention was called to order in a bedroom of one of the hotels, and was attended by not over a dozen persons, including the candidates.

Alleged Embezzler Arrested.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—E. L. Collins of Denver was arrested in the crowds viewing the Red Men's parade here by Detectives Brown of New York and Hummel of Kansas City, on a charge of embezzling funds from a bank at Marshalltown, Ia. The detectives say a constant search has been made for the man for more than six months.

American League Season Ended.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Washington closed the American league season here with a victory, defeating New York 7 to 6. Both teams took things easy and errors were frequent.

A MILD REBUKE.

ROOSEVELT HOT SHOT.

On Haskell.

Governor Haskell's utter unfitness for any public position of trust or for association with any man anxious to make an appeal on a moral issue to the American people has been abundantly shown.

As an American citizen who prizes his Americanism and citizenship far above any question of partisanship, I regard it as a scandal and disgrace that Governor Haskell should be connected with the management of a national campaign.

To Bryan.

In my judgment the measures you advocate would be wholly ineffective in curing an evil, and so far as they had any effect at all would merely throw the entire business of the country into hopeless and utter confusion.

I put Mr. Taft's deeds against your words. I ask that Mr. Taft be judged by all his deeds, for he wishes none of them forgotten. I ask that you be judged both by the words you wish remembered and by the words that seemingly you and your party now desire to have forgotten.

GRANT AND A. T. STEWART.

Nomination of the Merchant For Secretary of the Treasury.

It was not unnatural that in the absolute absence of political experience President Grant should not only have had much to learn concerning the nature and conduct of civil government, but that he should also have had much to unlearn of the mental habits and the ways of thinking he had acquired in the exercise of large—indeed, almost unlimited—military command. This was strikingly illustrated by some remarkable incidents.

As usual, the nominations made by the president for cabinet offices were promptly ratified by the senate without being referred to any committee. But after this had been done it was remembered and reported to President Grant that one of the nominees so confirmed, A. T. Stewart of New York, whom President Grant had selected for the secretaryship of the treasury, as a person engaged in commerce was disqualified by one of the oldest laws on the statute book—in fact, the act of Sept. 2, 1789, establishing the treasury department. That this law, which provided that the treasury department, having the administration of the custom houses under its control, should not have at its head a merchant or importer in active business, was entirely proper—indeed, a necessary one—had never been questioned. The next morning, March 6, I had occasion to call upon President Grant for the purpose of presenting to him a congratulatory message from certain citizens of St. Louis. I found him alone engaged in writing something on a half sheet of note paper. "Mr. President," I said, "I see you are busy, and I do not wish to interrupt you. My business can wait." "Never mind," he answered, "I am only writing a message to the senate." My business was quickly disposed of, and I withdrew.

In the course of that day's session of the senate a message from the president was brought in in which, after quoting the statute of Sept. 2, 1789, the president asked that Mr. Stewart be exempted by joint resolution of the two houses of congress from the operation of the law which stood in Mr. Stewart's way. There were some signs of surprise among senators when the message was read, and Mr. Sherman at once asked unanimous consent to introduce a bill in accordance with the president's wish. But Mr. Sumner objected to the immediate consideration thereof because of its great importance. This stopped further proceedings, and the bill was laid on the table, never to be heard of again.—Carl Schurz's Reminiscences in McClure's.

City of Mexico Street Cars.

The street car system of the city of Mexico is a fine one, but here is one arbitrary rule that strangers must learn as soon as possible—that is, the cars do not stop except at certain points, where you will notice the electric light poles have a band of white painted on them. These stopping places are very close together in the crowded parts of the city, so you must look out for them. You are expected, too, to enter at the back and go out at the front door. Apart from this, the conductors will be found courteous, ever ready to tell you things and anxious to assist you.—Houston Post.

Courting Trouble.

"Look here," said the official, "there'll be trouble if your wife disregards us when we persistently tell her she must not pick the flowers."

"Then," replied Mr. H. Peck, for it was no other, "why ever do you persist?"—Judge.

Be prepared to answer for the single talent committed to your charge and take no thought for the rest.—St. Bernard of Clairvaux.

An automobile party was touring through a mountainous district of one of the states and had made a stop in one of the small towns to make some repairs to the machine. While they waited the attention of one of the party was called to an intelligent looking lad of about fourteen who seemed to be very much interested in the work and of whom the following question was asked:

"Say, son, what do you live on out here?"

Eye Strain Headache

Toledo, Ohio, lady tells how headaches disappeared with the use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills.

Women who use their eyes much for reading or fine needlework are sure to find eye-strain and nervous, sick headaches among the first symptoms when the nervous system gets run down.

As a positive cure for headaches, not mere relief but cure, Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills stand without a rival because they get at the cause of the trouble and build up the nervous system to health and strength.

Mrs. K. Kramer, 31 Summit St., Toledo, Ohio, states: "My trouble was good, hard, nervous, sick headaches and neuralgia of the eyes, all due to a run-down system. I heard of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills and obtained splendid results from their use. The headaches and neuralgia disappeared when my system was built up; the nerves are steady and my whole system wonderfully benefited."

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold only—you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label, if poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good! Hereafter for this very reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

THREE MEN ARE SLAIN BY FILIPINOS

American Contractor and Two Spaniards Murdered.

Manila, Oct. 9.—Charles T. Trotter, an American, and Vincent E. Toledo and Jose Canayan, Spaniards, were killed near Lubao in the province of Pampagna by a party of Filipinos. The men were murdered with bolos and their bodies were badly mutilated.

Trotter was a contractor and land owner and had had trouble over land with a Filipino who led the party which killed Trotter and his companions.

The Filipinos assert that Trotter and his companions were the aggressors, but American neighbors say that the murder was deliberately plotted by Filipinos, who waylaid the party and provoked a quarrel. They further claim that the Filipino officials are indisposed to properly investigate the crime and prosecute the murderers and they have therefore sent a representative to Manila with a petition to Governor Smith to cause a special investigation of the case to be made.

The American and Spanish residents are strongly incensed over the murder.

The next convention will be held in this city Oct. 12, 1909.

Charles F. Staples of Minnesota submitted a report favoring a national valuation of railroad property, and it was adopted.

DID NOT BOTHER FLEET.

Another Typhoon Passes Close to Manila.

Manila, Oct. 9.—Another typhoon has passed close to Manila and it still hovers near by. A gale blew all night, but was not troublesome to the fleet, which had received ample warning. The storm interrupted the landing of some supplies, but it is expected they soon will be loaded on board the ships, which are ready for sea, en route to Japan.

Thirteen new cases of cholera and two deaths have occurred in Manila in the past twenty-four hours.

For World's Championship.

Cincinnati, Oct. 9.—Beginning at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of Saturday, Oct. 10, the baseball teams of Chicago and Detroit, which have just won the closest recorded contests for the championship of the National and American leagues, will meet at Detroit to enter upon a six-day series of games for the baseball championship of the world.

Thousands After Land.

Dallas, S. D., Oct. 9.—It is estimated that 60,000 have filed applications for Tripp county lands at all points. There was more disorder and sixty police now guard the town. C. C. Redman of St. Edwards, Neb., a prospective settler, was run over by a train and killed at O'Neill, Neb.

SERVIANS ARE WILD FOR WAR

King Peter Face to Face With a Grave Crisis.

THREATENED BY HIS SUBJECTS

May Be Dethroned or Assassinated Unless He Declares War Against Austro-Hungary — Dual Monarchy Prepares for Trouble and All Bridges Over the Danube Near the Serbian Frontier Are Guarded.

Belgrade, Serbia, Oct. 9.—War between Serbia and Austro-Hungary is so near that King Peter of Serbia in all probability must either declare it soon or suffer dethronement and perhaps assassination at the hands of his infuriated subjects.

The entire Serbian country is in a half mad ferment over the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina by the Austrian government.

Coupled as this act was with the declaration by Bulgaria of her independence, the proclamation of annexation by which the island of Crete has

Constantinople as to the advisability of the proposed conference of the powers to discuss the occurrences of the present eventful week, and Great Britain's hint to the Ottoman government that such a meeting might possibly add to the complications and result in further detriment to Turkey may induce the porte to abandon its demand therefor.

The porte will protest strongly to the powers regarding the Cretan declaration for union with Greece, but it is expected to take the view that inasmuch as this island is under the protection of the powers it is their duty to see that the rights of Turkey are upheld.

It is stated on good authority that Kiamil Pasha, the grand vizier, yielding to the demand of the military party, submitted to the sultan the text of an irade ordering the mobilization of the First army corps at Constantinople, the Second at Adrianople and the Third at Saloniki and Monastir. The irade, it is said, will be published immediately. The grand vizier has assured the ambassadors that the mobilization is purely a defensive measure.

It is rumored that the Turkish fleet has been ordered to mobilize and proceed to Varna, a Bulgarian port on the Black sea.

ENTIRELY UNEXPECTED.

Crete's Proclamation Causes Excitement in Greece.

Athens, Oct. 9.—Crete's proclamation of union with Greece was entirely unexpected here and has caused great excitement. The situation is considered embarrassing. King George is at present in Copenhagen and M. Skouzes, the minister of foreign affairs, has assured the diplomatic representatives of the foreign powers that the Greek government had not the slightest idea before hand that such an event would happen.

There was a meeting of the cabinet and the ministry resolved to take no action that might irritate Turkey. It is hoped, however, that since Turkey was practically deprived of Crete years ago, she will not oppose the people's wishes.

TAKE OATH OF LOYALTY.

Cretan Officials Swear Allegiance to Greece.

Canea, Crete, Oct. 9.—The members of the new government took the oath of loyalty to Greece here, as did also the officers of the gendarmerie and the militia.

The consular body protested in principle against the declaration of union, but will confine itself to submitting the matter to the four protecting powers, Great Britain, Russia, France and Italy.

TAFT REGISTERS.

Considerable Rivalry for Honor of Voting Republican Candidate.

Cincinnati, Oct. 9.—William Howard Taft is a registered voter in Precinct H, Ward 2, of the city of Cincinnati. The Republican presidential candidate registered at his last opportunity before the November election, thus accomplishing the object for which he came here.

There was no little rivalry in the city for the honor of voting Mr. Taft. Michael Mullen of the Eighth ward, in which Mr. Taft was a resident before the city was redistricted, was keen to have the judge on his books, but Mr. Taft went to the same location in which he has voted for the past twelve years.

The registry office is in a plumbing shop, and when the genial candidate entered it, he was put through the following catechism by the registry clerk.

"How old are you?"
"Fifty-one."
"How many years have you lived in the state of Ohio?"
"Fifty-one."
"How many years in the country?"
"Fifty-one."
"How many years in the precinct?"
"Twelve."
"Married?"
"Yes."

The candidate then signed, "William Howard Taft," to the registry book and the act was completed.

"I was very glad to meet Mr. Bryan under such pleasant circumstances," was the only comment Mr. Taft cared to make on the Chicago banquet.

This is truly a campaign of education, and the amazing thing is that two other campaigns have taught Bryan nothing more than to try to rub off the blackboard the demonstrations that time has proved erroneous.

Happier Outlook in India.

Things are getting better in British India. The number receiving state relief is now 689,000 instead of 1,375,000

CHICAGO WINS DECIDING GAME

Captures the National League Championship for 1908.

PLAYED AT POLO GROUNDS

One of the Most Remarkable Baseball Games in the History of the Sport Ends in Defeat of the New York Team by a Score of 4 to 2—Two Men Killed and Many Injured at the Game.

New York, Oct. 9.—Chicago, 4; New York, 2—this was the tale in a phrase told at the end of the most decisive baseball game played in this country in many years; played at the Polo grounds in this city to decide the National league championship for the season of 1908. In the presence of a record-breaking crowd, which swamped the grounds and left many thousands outside long before the game began, a game was played in deadly earnest, "straight baseball with no frills," to settle as tensely dramatic a situation as the most ardent lover of sport could imagine. Chicago won and New York lost.

The game was played in cheerful sunshine of an ideal baseball day before a vast concourse of people, who carried with them to the Polo grounds the pent up enthusiasm, hopes and fears accumulated day by day in the closing weeks of a season's fight for a National league pennant which had been absolutely unprecedented for constantly intensifying interest and uncertainty. At dusk the great multitude departed from the historic enclosure—hushed and disappointed. The pennant does not wave above the skyscrapers. Its winners, who arrived here on the Twentieth Century limited, are now on their way Westward.

Like Mourning Captions.

The large black headlines in the newspapers—"New York, 2; Chicago, 4,"—are like mourning captions over the story of some great personage's death. And yet probably Manager McGraw's words after the game in the unwanted quiet of the training quarters where the Giants were having their showers and rubdowns, epitomizes the feelings of the vast army of New York's followers, from those of the merest office boy, who had to sacrifice another grandmother to get off early and climb an "L" pillar for an occasional diamondward glimpse, to the occupant of a grandstand box.

"I do not feel badly about the game; we merely lost something we had won before."

Fair or not, this appears to be the view generally obtaining in Greater New York.

It was great baseball, witnessed by the greatest of great baseball crowds—which would have been more than doubled if the fences had been stretched out into a circle of sufficient size to include all those who had clamored vainly for admittance and who thronged everything that offered the least possibility of catching even an echo of the applause within. Spectators who know the game, however bitter they may feel over the tie decision which made this game compulsory, seem to concede that the work of the Chicago team was practically perfect.

The Giants, well though they played, were outplayed.

Chicago Superb in Form.

Chicago, fresh from rest and well-judged practice and coaching, was superb in form. Brilliant, errorless fielding, snappy base running and opportune hitting in the third inning, which made effective in scores, a double by Chance, won the game. New York could not hit at critical times. Mathewson, "the great Matty,"—favorite of the favorites, could not keep his invincible arm power and effect of a moment's lapse in that third inning could not be overcome. McGraw's substitution of Wiltse in the box the last two innings may or may not have been wise. The home team needed a long hit; needed the tremendous rallying power which Mathewson has more than once inspired in them at the very finish and wrung victory from seeming defeat.

The two great innings of the game were the third and the seventh. In the former Chicago made all its runs. In the latter, opening with tremendous enthusiasm following the loud-shouted, "the Giants' lucky seventh"—hopes were renewed, but died after one run, which kept company with that made in the first inning on the mammoth bulletin board far out of field. A display of rowdiness at the very end of the game by a few disgruntled spectators marred in a measure what had hitherto been fair treatment of the visiting players. No attempt was made during the game itself to interfere with the Chicago team, but after the game the crowd had swarmed on suddenly torn loose from Turkish rule and the reported revolt of Albania and the other revolutionary incidents of the past four days—these events have served to incite the warlike Servians to the point of war with Austria or revolt among themselves, and even the conciliatory influences of all the other European powers have so far failed to quiet them.

IT MAY BE AVERTED.

But War Between Austria-Hungary and Servia is Possible.

Vienna, Oct. 9.—War between Austria-Hungary and Servia is a recognized possibility, although it is believed here that it will be averted. King Peter is in a difficult position on account of the clamor of the Servians for war, particularly since his tenure on the throne never has been very safe.

The Austrians on their part have a new feeling of natural enterprise on account of the forward movement in the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina and would be more ready for further adventure now than they were a week ago. That the government recognizes the possibility, the military precautions in Hungary show. All the bridges over the Save and the Danube near the Serbian frontier are strongly guarded by patrols and four Danube river monitors have been concentrated at Budapest. The government explains that this maneuver was planned some time ago, but the Austrians would have Belgrade at the mercy of their guns if that were necessary.

The newspapers contain warnings to Servia. The Wiener Tagblatt says:

"The next few days or hours will show whether official Servia joins in this game of bluff. If it wishes to make a declaration of bankruptcy, that can soon be managed. The people of Belgrade must not forget that when the mischief has begun there can be no pardon."

The Die Ziet says:

"Servia seems to be drifting into an adventure under the illusion that it cannot lose anything; it cannot be warned too strongly against that error. Servia can under certain circumstances lose its independence."

Other Vienna papers say that the sleepy days of Goldschowsky have gone and that Von Aehrenthal is not to be trifled with.

MRS. ERB TRIED TO END HER LIFE Attempted to Strangle Herself in Her Cell.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—Persistent reports that Mrs. J. Clayton Erb, under arrest with her sister, Mrs. Katherine Belsel, on the charge of being accessory to the murder of her husband, Captain Erb, had attempted suicide at Media jail were partly confirmed by officials of the prison, who were, however, most guarded in their replies. Mrs. Erb is said to have twisted a portion of her undershirt into a rope and to have attempted to strangle herself in her cell.

It is known that all night she was violently hysterical, alternately shrieking, "I didn't shoot Clayt. I never shot him," and calling for her sister to help her.

This sensational development followed a series opened by the Philadelphia police, who are carrying on the investigation and prosecution, although the killing of the political leader was effected in another county over which they technically have no jurisdiction.

Skeletonized, the police theory is that Erb's death had long been decided upon by the two sisters; that they had endeavored to get in Mrs. Erb's name all his property; that they had attempted his life by slow poison, and this failing, and fearing discovery, they desperately plotted to shoot him and lure him to his death.

Object, Matrimony.

"I want to put an ad. in your paper," said the weary looking man. "Make it, 'Wanted, a situation—any old job.'"

"Shall I say 'wages no object?'" suggested the clerk.

"No; make it 'object matrimony.' If I could get acquainted with a decent job I'd be willing to marry it for life."

BIG PARADE OF VESSELS.

Nearly Two Hundred in Line on the Delaware River.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—The illumination of the squadron of battleships and cruisers at anchor in the harbor; the play of naval searchlights and brilliant fireworks along the three miles of the city's waterfront brought to a spectacular close the fifth day of Philadelphia's celebration of her 225th birthday anniversary.

Practically the entire interest of the demonstrations was the water display on the Delaware, where there was a parade of nearly 200 vessels of every class of craft navigating the river.

Not the least spectacular of the demonstrations was the parade of the Improved Order of Red Men. More than 15,000 men, the majority of them in full Indian costume, marched down Broad street before at least 200,000 people.

Columbus, O., Oct. 9.—W. C. Carter of Peoria, Ill., was elected grand master of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen to succeed John J. Hannahan. Mr. Carter has been secretary of the organization for a number of years. St. Paul, Minn., was chosen as the place for the next meeting.

HUGHES IN KANSAS.

New York Governor Speaks in Several Towns.

Wichita, Kan., Oct. 9.—"Vote for Mr. Bryan's new proposals and you will support the next of kin, the heir at law, the very twin of Mr. Bryan's old 16 to 1 policies."

This assertion was made by Governor Hughes of New York to the voters of Kansas in a speechmaking tour in the state which culminated here. Governor Hughes spoke at eight towns to assemblies of farmers, railroad operators and business men. At Herington, Kan., after leaving St. Joseph, Mo., Governor Hughes, pointing his finger at a crowd of workmen, declared:

"Don't let anybody tell you that Mr. Taft is not the friend of labor."

COON HUNTING IN AUTOS.

F. Ambrose Clark Tries to Exterminate Animals That Eat His Corn.

Hunting coons with an automobile is the latest pastime to be indulged in by F. Ambrose Clark and some of his friends at Cooperstown, N. Y. The corn and other produce on Fernleigh farm, which is connected with the estate of Mrs. Henry C. Potter, Mr. Clark's mother, have been devastated by coons lately, much to the annoyance of the farmers and the wealthy owner. At a meeting of the Fish and Game club held at Cooperstown the other night
Mr. Clark proposed that the company take two of his large motors and start out in search of the animals.

Since that time a determined war on the coon tribe has been waged by automobiles. A pack of dogs is taken along, and when the coons are driven by the dogs into the open fields the autos give chase with all horns honking and a clatter that strikes terror to the heart of the wild animal never put there by the winding of the huntsman's horn.

TO SEA IN HOUSE BOAT

Wealthy Man's Trip From New York to Florida.

HONEYMOON'S CONTINUATION.

No Danger, Says Edward Becket.
When Costliest Craft of Its Kind in United States Rides on the Atlantic Luxurious Quarters on Boat Formerly Owned by Long Islander.

Yachtsmen who have sailed the world over in quest of recreation and health are deeply interested in the house boat trip from New York city to Florida of Edward Becket, treasure of the Equitable Engineering company of New York. Mr. Becket's house bo-Najme is the most splendidly equippeand costliest craft of its kind in America, if not in the world.

Although the boat draws little more than three feet of water, Mr. Becket says there will be no danger when leaves the inland route in Virginia at rides on the Atlantic around Cape Ha-teras and thence along the coast to Florida in tow of an ocean going tug.
Mr. Becket intends to spend the winter on the Miami river. The trip will be a continuation of the honeymoon from which Mr. and Mrs. Becket returned recently after an extended European tour.

Up to the time of the recent purchase of the Najme from the heirs of George C. Taylor, the eccentric millionaire of Islip, N. Y., considerable mystery surrounded the boat, says the New York World. It was built for Betsy Head, housekeeper for the ag-millionaire and whose home on the Long Island estate vied with the ower's mansion in magnificence.

Yachtsmen who have seen the Najme have expressed themselves as amazed by its luxuriant fittings. Her graceful lines, trim masts and burnished brasses suggest at first glance that the craft is a yacht. Closer inspection, however, reveals her to be a house boat without power. She is ninety-eight feet on the water line and has a thirty foot beam. The Cligarette, owned by an English millionaire, and the Everglades, owned by Colonel Thompson of New York city, are the only house boats in the world which exceed the Najme in length, but neither has more than half her beam.

The Najme is far more spacious than many a summer villa. The interior woodwork, even to the galley, is of mahogany. Below the main deck are four large staterooms with two baths,
a commodious dining room, a salon and a reading room. The latter three apartments, combined with a wide hall, can be turned into a ballroom by

THE MUCH BETTER FLOUR

ROMAN FLOUR

removing portières which otherwise separate them.

Forward on the boat are the kitchen or galley, two staterooms, one for the chef and the other for the maids, and quarters for the crew, which consists of four men and a cabin boy. On the upper deck—the second story of this palatial house boat—is the "sun promenade," along which are boxes filled with flowering plants. They are in view of the owner's suit, which was designed by E. Cockburn Johnstone, a Scotch shipbuilding expert, and to whose ingenuity the yachtlike appearance of the Najme is due.

The owner's suit consists of a salon,
a spacious bedroom and a tiled bathroom equipped with hot and cold salt water or fresh water. A spacious fireplace, which is fed with logs, is installed in the salon.

Mr. Becket purchased the thirty-five foot mahogany launch, the Syra, with the Najme as a tender. The launch will tow the house boat down the Ra-tan canal, through the Delaware river and into Chesapeake bay, where a tug will take up the journey around Cape Hatteras to Miami, Fla. Among the modern appliances with which the Najme is fitted is a sulphuric etherhydrogen searchlight, the first of its kind operated by a storage battery, of 110,000 candle power.

George C. Taylor built the Najme several years ago from plans drawn by himself. The Najme's lines were first staked off with ropes on the lawn of the millionaire's Long Island estate. He employed expert craftsmen engaged from abroad to carry out his ideas.
They were instructed to defer from even driving a nail unless it was with the sanction of Mr. Taylor or Betsy Head. Shipbuilders estimate the cost of the Najme at more than $200,000.

When the boat was finished Mr. Taylor found he could not get it to the bay to launch. He had a canal dug from the lawn to the inlet, a distance of half a mile, and in this manner floated the boat. It was moored to a dock at the end of the canal after one trial trip and thereafter was never used. Betsy Head it was said in the neighborhood, had tired of the costly whim in which she had been indulged by the eccentric millionaire. The house boat was kept ready for occupancy, nevertheless, but only few personal friends of Mr. Taylor were permitted to go on board.

Mr. Becket has refitted the boat in the most luxurious manner compatible with good taste. He plans later to install an engine which will drive the

Young Men's Clothes
Ederheimer, Stein & Co., Makers

ONE thing that makes this store the best place for Young Men to buy clothes is the exclusive connections we've established with Ederheimer, Stein & Co., the leading makers in the Young Men's field. It's a good thing all 'round—for the makers, for us and for you.
Chiefly for you.

Almost impossible to pick out one feature more than others which distinguishes these Fall suits we're showing. Styles are the smartest, most original and pleasing ever offered; garments are made by the best tailors in the world; fit is perfect; patterns without equal.

Rather forced to the conclusion the clothes are noteworthy and exceptional throughout. Can't list all the details; you must come in.

JACOBSON SPOKE TO CROWDED HOUSE

Meeting at Opera House Thursday Evening was Large and Enthusiastic

DISCUSSED STATE ISSUES ONLY

Address was a Revelation to Many of the Ability and Power of the Man

It looked for awhile Thursday evening as if the chances for an address from Hon. Jacob F. Jacobson were slim. Word was received by telephone from Crow Wing that the machine had broken down and asked for help. C. W. and A. L. Hogman went down in their big touring car and brought the party to this city, arriving here at 7:45. Long before they arrived the lobby of the Ransford was crowded and hundreds were lined up on the street awaiting the arrival of the party.

After exchanging greetings with a few of the gentlemen present and eating a hurried supper Mr. Jacobson went direct to the opera house where one of the largest crowds which ever attended a political meeting in Brainerd was gathered.

The meeting was presided over by Judge W. A. Fleming, who was a colleague of Mr. Jacobson in the legislature twenty years ago, when the republican candidate was serving his first term. After paying a brief tribute to Mr. Jacobson's services at that time he introduced him to the audience as the next governor of Minnesota.

Mr. Jacobson was received with hearty applause. He stated in the commencement of his address that he should touch on state issues only. There would be other speakers later in the campaign who are more familiar with national issues than he is. He said he wanted to tell the people in plain, simple language some of the things he had accomplished in his public life and some of those he would attempt to accomplish if elected governor.

He touched on the establishing of the twine factory at Stillwater, the "Free Market" bill, by which the monopoly in the establishment of elevators along railroads has been broken, the "Y" law, which compelled railroads to do business with each other and to make joint rates between places within the state, and the law preventing "mid-night tariffs" by means of which the big shippers were enabled to secure a special tariff for a short time between certain places, while they rushed through a bunch of shipments while their smaller competitors, not being prepared to take advantage of it, or not knowing of it until too late were discriminated against.

He spoke of the campaign against the pine land frauds and urged the enforcement of the criminal provisions of the statute against timber thieves. He also discussed at length the fight for the enactment of the gross earnings tax, and the history of recent railroad legislation. He declared that he had no desire to be unjust with the railroads, and that every bill passed had proven to be an advantage to the people and none had injured the railroads when put to the actual test. He believed that the cases now pending in the courts to determine the justice of the changes in commodity rates made by the last session of the legislature should be carried to a decision and if elected governor he should advocate an appropriation for that purpose. If after actual test they were found unjust to railroad company he would urge their repeal.

He also advocated state drainage, agricultural schools in every county, and the increase of the work of the immigration bureau. He said the people of Minnesota should praise Minnesota and laud the state not only till they believed themselves that it was the best state in the union, but made every-one else believe it.

Turning his attention to Gov. Johnson, he said that he should make no attack on him whatever. He could only say that he admired an out and out democrat where ever he met him. He would give you a hot fight, go down to defeat smilingly and come up for another fight just as smiling as for the first. He made no attacks of any kind on his opponent, saying that if he could not be elected without attacking the integrity of his opponent he did not want the office.

Referring to the oft repeated insinuations and charges that he had sold out to the interests he declared that he never made a bad bargain unless he had to. He went to the convention with 172 votes more than enough to elect without a vote from the twin cities or Duluth, and that then the other fellows fell on his neck and declared that he was a good fellow and that they had been for him all the time. Gov. Johnson, he declared, went around the state two years ago telling the people how he, Jacobson, had been abused by the republican party, and how he was the ablest and honestest man in it. Now he was the tool of the interests and there was no good in him.

Mr. Jacobson made a decided hit with the audience and his clear cut plain talk met with approval and hearty applause. There is no doubt that he straightened his candidacy materially by his address and that there was not a man left the opera house last night who did not believe that "Jake Jacobson" was honest clear through and would do what he thought right whatever happened.

VISITED THE SHOPS

Hon. J. F. Jacobson Taken on Tour Through the Northern Pacific Shops by Supt. Anderson

Through the courtesy of J. P. Anderson, superintendent of the Northern Pacific shops, Hon. J. F. Jacobson, together with Ralph Wheelock, who accompanies him in the interests of the twin city papers, and a few local gentlemen, made a tour of the Northern Pacific shops this forenoon. Mr. Anderson personally escorted him through the various buildings, the foremen of the various departments accompanying them. After the visit both Mr. Jacobson and Mr. Wheelock expressed themselves as pleased and astonished at the magnitude of the institution, and said that they had enjoyed the trip immensely.

JOSIAH THAYER KILLED AT PASCO

Former Brainerd Resident Meets Death at Washington Town Wednesday Night

HE WAS A CAR INSPECTOR

Remains will Reach Here Sunday Morning and will be Buried with Masonic Honors

A telegram was received last night by A. E. Thayer that his brother Josiah Thayer had been killed at Pasco, Wash., and that the remains would arrive here Sunday morning. This morning a telegram arrived to the master for Aurora Lodge, A. F. & A. M., from the master of the lodge at Pasco, asking the lodge here to give him a Masonic funeral in accordance with the wishes of the family.

He was for many years a car repairer at the Northern Pacific shops here and with his family removed to Pasco last winter to accept a position as car inspector for the Northern Pacific railroad at that point.

Mr. Thayer was a brother also of Mrs. A. G. Brockway, of this city. His mother, Mrs. S. P. Thayer and another brother, Geo. W. Thayer, reside at Bethel, Minn., and a telephone message was received from them this morning, stating that they would arrive here tomorrow morning.

The deceased leaves a wife and four children, the oldest being 13 years of age. The family will accompany the remains and it is thought by the relatives that they will remain here as they have a home on Nineteenth street Southeast and there is nothing now to hold them at Pasco.

In accordance with the telegram received this morning arrangements are being made for a Masonic funeral at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, under the auspices of Aurora Lodge.

NEW YORK WAITERS.

They Spoiled the Appetite of the Transplanted Citizen.

"These New York waiters have got on my nerves," said a transplanted citizen from a smaller town. "Dining in the magnificent hotels and restaurants would be a joy if some one would kindly remove the waiters while you ate. I can think of nothing but the big black buzzards that hover over your head in Florida.

"There are so many waiters standing around, all in black, and they look so big and get their faces or their hands so close to you and your dinner that you feel like throwing the china at them. When your waiter has disappeared a smaller edition keeps right after you, filling your glass, removing dishes, giving you more butter, and if you look away from him the head waiter has his eye on you.

"The most maddening thing of all to me is the way the waiter orders your dinner for you. One took me in hand the other night, and I let him have his way just to see what he would do to me. I hate fish, but he averred that fish was the best thing I could eat and one particular dish was the chef's masterpiece. He brought it and, ye gods, it was fish all greasy with a dope made of cheese and mushrooms that about finished me; but, fortunately, he only let me take two bites when he whisked my plate away and set down a salad that had several kinds of fruit laced to lettuce leaves, with strips of red and green peppers and French dressing over that. I barely looked at that when he took it away in triumph and gave me an ice cream thick with chestnuts and fruits.

"Now, I dine on rare roast beef, plain lettuce and never take dessert, so you see how near he came to sulking me. 'Come again, sir,' said he. 'Not if I'm conscious,' said I."—New York Times.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Coming Attractions

Oct. 9—"The Substitute"

Max Figman Tonight

Max Figman has arrived. He is one of the most foremost, if not the foremost comedians on the American stage, and he is growing more popular every day. There is something about his acting that is very fascinating. He is just naturally funny. He's versatile too. Comedy is his forte, but not withstanding that, there are few actors living who can equal him in character portrayal. The secret of it all is, he is a student. He takes life and his profession seriously, and is constantly trying to improve himself and his art. His success is amazing. He holds records for business in a dozen of theatres for the last two seasons.

"The Substitute" is a jolly story, and the critics claim it has made a fine play. It has a romantic touch, and the laughter never ceases from the first rise of the curtain to its fall on the finale. At the opera house tonight.

Bijou

At this popular place of amusement, large crowds witnessed one of the best programs put on for many months, the headliner being Franz Molnar's sensation play, "The Devil" as taken by Thos. A. Edison. This play is meeting with as much success in America as abroad, both in Balasco and the garden theatres in New York, respectively, being thronged nightly by crowds eager to see this curious drama. "The Devil" was first produced in Budapest in April 1907, and was seen in Vienna the following autumn. Since then it has been played in Berlin, Rome, Florence and a dozen other of the more important cities of the continent. The plot of the "devil" is a sociological study, the title role being a personification in human form of Satan. It will be some time before another picture of this character will be produced in this city. The vaudeville team "Smith and Adams" made a decided hit with the audience, in a ludicrous comedy act that is unique, introducing strong singing and buck dancing. This program will be repeated tonight and Saturday.

Millions of bottles of Foley's Honey and Tar have been sold without any person ever having experienced any other than beneficial results from its use for coughs, colds and lung troubles. This is because the genuine Foley's Honey and Tar in the yellow package contains no opiates or other harmful drugs. Guard your health by refusing any but the genuine. H. P. Dunn. mwf

Smith, alias Golden Asks Continuance for one Week of Case for Board Jumping

The case against T. E. Smith, alias Edward Golden, for board jumping, was called in municipal court this morning. Smith, which he declares is his true name, stating in court that Golden is his traveling name, asked for a week's continuance, saying that he wanted to hear from Davenport, where his people reside. He also declared that a local printer had gone good for his board bill. He was placed under $25 bonds until Monday, despite his plea to the judge to let him out on parole, promising to report to the sheriff every hour and a half. He was returned to jail in default of bail. He is apparently in bad shape physically as the result of strong drink and could hardly stand when in court today. There has no action taken as yet in the matter of the worthless check.

VAGARIES OF SOUND.

Acoustic Phenomena That Are Puzzling to Scientists.

At twilight some time ago at a life saving station of the English coast noises were heard that sounded like signal shots from some distance at sea. A boat was launched and sped with all possible energy to the place from which the sounds seemed to have come. But, it returned without having heard or seen anything further. Yet the seaman who had been left behind on guard declared solemnly that in the meantime he had heard near shore unmistakable cries for help from drowning persons. The bluejackets themselves are most inclined to regard the whole matter as supernatural and the voices as spectral. Scientists say that it is possible, however, that such sounds may be audible in remarkable distinctness where there is a high coast, though they may come from a great distance, especially when persons there are placed accidentally so that behind them rises a wall which receives the sound and throws it back.

On some coasts that are often visited by fog a legend of so called "fog shots" has acquired vogue. These are said to have their origin, for some reason not yet fathomed, within the masses of fog. Acoustic phenomena are found of such a strange kind that the investigation of them may be said to be still very far from conclusive. The most inexplicable secret lies perhaps not in the occurrence of sounds, the origin of which may be reached only with great difficulty, but in their disappearance and in absolute silence when audible noises should be expected. Many a ship has been wrecked because its signals of distress, loud and uninterrupted, have remained inaudible, although only a very short distance from the coast.

But, again, it happens that in such an instance the very same signals become audible at a far greater distance where they provoke great excitement. A remarkable example of this was produced by the firing of guns by the English fleet in the roadstead at Spithead on Feb. 1, 1901, as a token of mourning for Queen Victoria. This was not heard at all by many persons close at hand who were listening for it, while at places much farther away it was heard plainly. The direction of the wind failed to explain this aberration of the waves of sound.—Chicago News.

Pelican and Flamingo.

The hook of the pelican's bill is red, and undoubtedly the fable that the pelican feeds its young with blood from its own breast originated in the bird's habit of pressing the bill upon the breast in order to more easily empty the pouch, when the red tip might be mistaken for blood. Another explanation is that the pelican became confused with the flamingo, which discharges into the mouth of its young a secretion which in color resembles blood.

Eye Strain Headache

Toledo, Ohio, lady tells how headaches disappeared with the use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills.

Women who use their eyes much for reading or fine needlework are sure to find eye-strain and nervous, sick headaches among the first symptoms when the nervous system gets run down.

As a positive cure for headaches, not mere relief but cure, Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills stand without a rival because they get at the cause of the trouble and build up the nervous system to health and strength.

Mrs. K. Kramer, 31 Summit St., Toledo, Ohio, states: "My trouble was good, hard, nervous, sick headaches and neuralgia of the eyes, all due to a run-down system. I heard of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills and obtained splendid results from their use. The headaches and neuralgia disappeared when my system was built up; the nerves are steady and my whole system wonderfully benefited."

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold—only you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a suppressing poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label if poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good! Hereafter for this very reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must be law on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

American Contractor and Two Spaniards Murdered.

Manila, Oct. 9.—Charles T. Trotter, an American, and Vincent E. Toledo and Jose Canayan, Spaniards, were killed near Lubao in the province of Pampanga by a party of Filipinos. The men were murdered with bolos and their bodies were badly mutilated.

Trotter was a contractor and land owner and had had trouble over land with a Filipino who led the party which killed Trotter and his companions.

The Filipinos assert that Trotter and his companions were the aggressors, but American neighbors say that the murder was deliberately plotted by Filipinos, who waylaid the party and provoked a quarrel. They further claim that the Filipino officials are indisposed to properly investigate the crime and prosecute the murderers and they have therefore sent a representative to Manila with a petition to Governor Smith to cause a special investigation of the case to be made.

The American and Spanish residents are strongly incensed over the murder.

STAPLES IS HONORED.

Minnesota Man Chosen Vice President by Railroad Commissioners.

Washington, Oct. 9.—The National Association of Railroad Commissioners concluded its twentieth annual convention here. Officers for the coming year were elected as follows:

President, Martin S. Decker, New York; first vice president, R. Hudson Burr, Florida; second vice president, Charles F. Staples, Minnesota.

The next convention will be held in this city Oct. 12, 1909.

Charles F. Staples of Minnesota submitted a report favoring a national valuation of railroad property, and it was adopted.

DID NOT BOTHER FLEET.

Another Typhoon Passes Close to Manila.

Manila, Oct. 9.—Another typhoon has passed close to Manila and it still hovers near by. A gale blew all night, but was not troublesome to the fleet, which had received ample warning. The storm interrupted the landing of some supplies, but it is expected they soon will be loaded on board the ships, which are ready for sea, en route to Japan.

Thirteen new cases of cholera and two deaths have occurred in Manila in the past twenty-four hours.

For World's Championship.

Cincinnati, Oct. 9.—Beginning at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of Saturday, Oct. 10, the baseball teams of Chicago and Detroit, which have just won the closest recorded contests for the championship of the National and American leagues, will meet at Detroit to enter upon a six-day series of games for the baseball championship of the world.

Thousands After Land.

Dallas, S. D., Oct. 9.—It is estimated that 60,000 have filed applications for Tripp county lands at all points. There was more disorder and sixty police now guard the town. C. C. Redman of St. Edwards, Neb., a prospective settler, was run over by a train and killed at O'Neill, Neb.

RESUMES HIS CAMPAIGNING

Mr. Bryan Again Sallies Forth to Renew the Fight.

SCORES TAFT AND ROOSEVELT

Democratic Candidate Attacks His Republican Rival's Position on the Tariff, Trust and Labor Questions and Says No Remedial Legislation Need Be Expected as Long as Speaker Cannon Rules the House.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Having temporarily bridged the political chasm which separated them and shaken hands with his Republican opponent, William J. Bryan, Democratic candidate for president, again sallied forth and resumed his warfare. Not only Mr. Taft, but President Roosevelt came in for a severe verbal castigation at his hands. The forenoon was spent by the Democratic candidate in holding conferences with his lieutenants at headquarters and in the delivery of an address before the Lakes-to-the-Gulf Deep Waterways congress. In the afternoon he rode out to Evanston, a distance of fifteen miles, in an automobile, and there addressed several thousand students of Northwestern university, and citizens of the city, and at night journeyed to Chicago Heights, where he spoke to a big gathering of laboring men. He will leave here over the Santa Fe for Joliet, Streator, Galesburg and Quincy, Ill. Following his speech at the latter place, he will be taken in a special train to Hannibal, Mo., where he will make his final address of the day. Leaving Hannibal the next morning, Mr. Bryan will make speeches in Paris, Moberly, Kansas City and St. Joseph, Mo.

Mr. Bryan's principal remarks were made at Northwestern university. He first dwelt at some length on the desirability of good citizenship. "I want you to believe me," he declared, "that I am more anxious to help you than I am that you shall help me." He said it meant very little to the world whether any particular man was elected to the presidency, but that it did make a great deal of difference whether the government was properly conducted and whether the ideals of the people as citizens were worthy ideals.

Gives Advice to Students.

Addressing himself especially to the students, he said he wished to get them started right. He referred to the fact that his father did not leave him much money. "I am rather glad that he didn't," he said, "for I think fortunes have spoiled more boys than they ever have aided and a fortune in expectation has paralyzed ambition more than it ever has stimulated it." He then referred to the advice his father had given him, that he could afford to be in the minority but that he could not afford to be wrong on any question.

Mr. Bryan charged that the Republican leaders were not going in the direction that the people of the Republic party wanted to go, and he proceeded to present arguments in substantiation of his statement. He attacked Mr. Taft's position on the tariff, trust and labor questions, and warned his hearers that they need not expect any remedial legislation should the Republican party be kept in power and Speaker Cannon allowed to continue his despotic rule.

Once again he flayed President Roosevelt for interfering, as he said, in the campaign. The vigoriveness with which he spoke aroused the crowd to cheers. The president, he charged, had violated both the spirit and the letter of every civil service law by intimidating the several hundred thousand officeholders.

HOLDS ITS FIRST CONVENTION

Liberal Party Nominates a Candidate for President.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 9.—The Liberal party held its first national convention in this city for the purpose of putting candidates in the field for the presidency and vice presidency of the United States, and the following nominations were made:

For president, Sydney C. Tapp of Atlanta, Ga.

For vice president, John Maddox of Minnesota.

Mr. Maddox was chosen as chairman of the national executive committee.

The convention was called to order in a bedroom of one of the hotels, and was attended by not over a dozen persons, including the candidates.

Alleged Embezzler Arrested.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—E. L. Collins of Denver was arrested in the crowds viewing the Red Men's parade here by Detectives Brown of New York and Hummel of Kansas City, on a charge of embezzling funds from a bank at Marshalltown, Ia. The detectives say a constant search has been made for the man for more than six months.

American League Season Ended.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Washington closed the American league season here with a victory, defeating New York 9 to 6. Both teams took things easy and errors were frequent.

ROOSEVELT HOT SHOT.

On Haskell. Governor Haskell's utter unfitness for any public position of trust or for association with any man anxious to make an appeal on a moral issue to the American people has been abundantly shown.

To Bryan. In my judgment the measures you advocate would be wholly ineffective in curing an evil, and so far as they had any effect at all would merely throw the entire business of the country into hopeless and utter confusion.

I put Mr. Taft's deeds against your words. I ask that Mr. Taft be judged by all his deeds, for he wishes none of them forgotten. I ask that you be judged both by the words you wish remembered and by the words that seemingly you and your party now desire to have forgotten.

GRANT AND A. T. STEWART.

Nomination of the Merchant for Secretary of the Treasury.

It was not unnatural that in the absolute absence of political experience President Grant should not only have had much to learn concerning the nature and conduct of civil government, but that he should also have had much to unlearn of the mental habits and the ways of thinking he had acquired in the exercise of large—indeed, almost unlimited—military command. This was strikingly illustrated by some remarkable incidents.

As usual, the nominations made by the president for cabinet offices were promptly ratified by the senate without being referred to any committee. But after this had been done it was remembered and reported to President Grant that one of the nominees so confirmed, A. T. Stewart of New York, whom President Grant had selected for the secretaryship of the treasury, as a person engaged in commerce was disqualified by one of the oldest laws on the statute book—in fact, the act of Sept. 2, 1789, establishing the treasury department. That this law, which provided that the treasury department, having the administration of the custom houses under its control, should not have at its head a merchant or importer in active business, was entirely proper—indeed, a necessary one—had never been questioned. The next morning, March 6, I had occasion to call upon President Grant for the purpose of presenting to him a congratulatory message from certain citizens of St. Louis. I found him alone engaged in writing something on a half sheet of note paper. "Mr. President," I said, "I see you are busy, and I do not wish to interrupt you. My business can wait." "Never mind," he answered, "I am only writing a message to the senate." My business was quickly disposed of, and I withdrew.

AEROPLANE FOR WARSHIPS.

Lieutenant Sweet Working on Plans For Machine For Scouting.

Convinced by the tests conducted at Fort Myer, near Washington, by Orville Wright that the aeroplane would prove a valuable auxiliary to the navy for scouting at sea, the navy department is preparing plans for a heavier than air machine which, if successful, will be attached to warships. Lieutenant George C. Sweet of the bureau of equipment is at work on the plans, which will be submitted to Secretary Metcalf when completed.

The navy will be compelled to make several radical changes in the aeroplane as it is now constructed. In the first place, it will be necessary to protect the engine so that when the machine alights in the water the mechanism will not be injured by the salt water; also there will have to be a complete change in the plans for the lower rigging of the airship. Instead of the skids in which the aeroplane skims on alighting, the machine will have to be equipped with a boatlike structure to serve the same purpose.

The aeroplane which the navy department may purchase will be styled in a general way after the Wright aeroplane. It must carry two persons with a combined weight of 350 pounds, must be able to remain in the air at least an hour and must have a forty mile an hour speed.

Courting Trouble.

"Look here," said the official, "there'll be trouble if your wife disregards us when we persistently tell her she must not pick the flowers."

"Then," replied Mr. H. Peck, for it was no other, "why ever do you persist?"—Judge.

No One Questions It.

An automobile party was touring through a mountainous district of one of the states and had made a stop in one of the small towns to make some repairs to the machine. While they waited the attention of one of the party was called to an intelligent looking lad of about fourteen who seemed to be very much interested in the work and of whom the following question was asked:

"Say, son, what do you live on out here?"

"Nuthin'," replied the somewhat surprised youth. "Dad's a preacher."
